TEXT:

It's the trend lately... More and more custom bike owners are getting fat by adding oversized rubber to the back of their bikes. In order to make it easy for you to go wide in the rear, Drag Specialties has introduced their new 60- and 80-spoke wide rear wheel assemblies. Available in 15"x7" or 18"x9" sizes, the wheels feature chrome-plated steel rims, chromed aluminum hubs and stainless-steel spokes. The assemblies require center metal valve stems, and will accept 1984 to 1999 Harley-style rotors and pulleys. Check with your local Drag Specialties dealer, or contact them for the authorized Drag shop nearest you.

Florida-Based Street Eagle Rents Out Harley-Davidson Motorcycles
(Street Eagle International is renting Harleys by the hour in the St Petersburg-Largo area)
Bradenton Herald , p N/A
November 13, 1998
DOCUMENT TYPE: Regional Newspaper ISSN: 0028-0518 (United States)
LANGUAGE: English RECORD TYPE: Fulltext
WORD COUNT: 796

ABSTRACT:

For many, Harley-Davidson conjures up images of bearded bikers clad head-to-toe in leather, roaming the highways in a never-ending freedom ride. But that image has changed. Now, bankers and consultants, male and female, are just as likely as diehard bikers to ride a Harley. Street Eagle International is tapping into that market. Founded four years ago in the St. Petersburg-Largo area of Pinellas County, Street Eagle recently opened a branch at the new site of the Courtesy Motors used-car dealership, 6216 28th St. E. in Manatee County. It's similar to a rental-car business, except it rents Harleys. The concept appears to be paying off. The business has been open for about a month and reservations already are being booked weeks in advance. "Our phone is a already ringing off the hook," said Lyle Kusler, owner and operator of the local Street Eagle. Right now, there are only five bikes at the Manatee County location, but since the operation is part of the Street Eagle franchise, it is able to schedule use of 15 others based in St. Petersburg and Atlanta. The local shop has a Softtail Custom, a Dyna Wide Glide, a Fat Boy, a Heritage Classic and a Dyna Super Glyde. Only new models are used. Rental costs are $30 an hour; $95 for four hours; $115 for six hours; $135 a day for one- or two-day rides; $120 a day for three- to six-day rides; and $99.29 a day for seven or more days. Insurance is included, as are 24-hour roadside maintenance, unlimited mileage, helmets, protective locks and cables, and saddlebags and windshields. The only requirements for riders are that they be at least 21 years old and have a motorcycle license and major credit card for the $500 deposit. So far most bookings have come from overseas tourists wanting to ride up and down the gulf coast on a motorcycle rather than in a car, Kusler said. Others simply want the experience of riding a Harley, or they want to test-ride a few bikes before deciding to spend $18,000 to $20,000 to buy one for themselves. "The typical Harley customer today is a white male in his early 40s who makes approximately $70,000 in household income," Chris Romoser, a spokesman for Harley-Davidson Motor Co said. "But when you go a little deeper, you see that it (the market base) really runs the gamut from young to old and male to female." Harley-Davidson has caught wind of the rental niche itself and is test-marketing some rental operations in southern California. To many people, Romoser said, riding a Harley represents a departure from the day-to-day pressures of life. A lot of Street Eagle's business comes from booking bike rallies to Daytona, Myrtle Beach, S.C., and other locations. Kusler plans to expand that to include tours in which riders will be able to pay one price for the bike rental, hotel room and dinner on the beach. Courtesy Motors also is building a showcase area for the business in its new 5,000-square-foot showroom, where bike accessories will be sold. Once the rental bikes are a year old, they will be sold.

No, this is an Arizona-made motorcycle, a machine hand-crafted from top components by a Phoenix company that is outgrowing its newest factory just four months after moving in.

The Titan Motorcycle Co. of America, located in a nondescript building at 20th Street and Indian School Road, is volume-producing its own brand of motorcycle and rapidly making a name for itself as a builder of fast, sturdy and gorgeous mounts for the connoisseur biker.

From its sharply raked front end to its implausibly wide rear tire, each motorcycle built by Titan technicians shouts style and performance, and the motorcycle world is beating a path to the company's door.

Four models of Titan motorcycles -- about 300 per year -- are being produced in the spotless factory, which has sales outlets...
